Response to Election

1. Applicant's election of the apparatus claims of 1-21 in Paper No. 6 is acknowledged. Applicant, however, has not elected between the two species for examination. Applicant argues that an election cannot be made because the apparatus claims of 1-21 cannot be species and that the application discloses a single embodiment of the invention. This is not found persuasive because the invention of claim 1 claims a third pneumatic device as recited which is not claimed in claim 17, thus making claim 1 and claim 17 different embodiments of the apparatus. Applicant is required to elect between the two embodiments (species) of the apparatus for examination.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.
